LOCAL & GENERAL NEWS.

The Likelike will arrive here tomorrow from Maui.
The steamer Kinan will sail for windward ports on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

Dr. Stangenwald has for rent, lease or sale, those large and commodious premises at 104 Beretania street.

There is a four-room cottage to let, on Fort street, near the Chinese Church. It can be taken either furnished or unfurnished.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of Olowalu Sugar Co., will be held at the office of W. G. Irwin & Co., on Monday, September 19th, at 11 A. M.

The fact that the Portuguese vote in the district of Kohala, Hawaii, was so strong for the Reform ticket, was largely due to the exertions of Mr. P. A. Dias.

There was more blasting on Hotel street last evening, and the shower of stones was greater than on previous occasions. In a garden close by, several ladies had to get under cover in haste, the stones fell so thickly.

Seats may be reserved next Wednesday, beginning at 9 o'clock A. M., at Mr. A. M. Hewett's for the Clark combination company performances. Tickets may then be obtained and seats reserved for the season.

At Mr. Lewis J. Levey's sale on Tuesday next, there will be offered a number of books, (chiefly scholastic) unbound magazines, full vocal scores of operas and operettas, music, etc. They will be on view Monday.

A GENTLEMAN lately from Kauai speaks highly of Mr. Stretz, of Kohala, and his work on the roads there. The place where the stage coach recently capsized is now as even as a table—in fact, the whole road is as good, if not better, than Waikiki road.

PRINCESS Liliuokalani and Governor Dominis celebrated their silver wedding yesterday afternoon, at their residence, Palama. Between three and five o'clock there was a constant stream of callers, among whom were the King and Queen and many officers from the warships in port.

A CHALLENGE.

EDITOR BULLETIN:—Knowing your love "to put things aright," I ask you to be so kind as to insert in the columns of your paper the following lines:
I hereby challenge Prof. Manuel J. de Freitas to come before the public of Honolulu, and prove the slanders which he has been throwing against me, or anything that he may have to say against my character, but not to forget to bring his record for these last 30 years.

Yours Truly,

JOHN M. VIVAS.

At King Bros.' Hotel street, may be seen a superb pastel painting by Furneaux of recent lava formations in the crater of Kilauea, taken from photographs by Mr. C. P. Wilson. The painting itself is a most striking piece of artistic work, and the scene is one of indescribable grandeur. At the same art gallery may also be seen some fine embroidery by Miss Halstead, of Waiatae.

BAND CONCERT.

The Royal Hawaiian Band will play at Emma Square this afternoon commencing at 7:30 o'clock. Following is the programme:—

March—New Constitution. Michiels
Overture—Mozart. Suppe
Selection—Ernst. Verdi
Waltz—Gipsy Baron. Strauss
Gavotte—The First Heart Throbs (new). Ellenberg
Polka—Gipsy Baron (new). Strauss

CARRYING CONCEALED WEAPONS.

Wm. Whigham, who was remanded from the 13th inst. for carrying a concealed weapon, pleaded guilty yesterday in the Police Court, but gave as extenuating circumstances that he carried the same weapon on the 30th of last June and for some time afterwards until the New Constitution was signed, as did nearly all the other members of the Honolulu Rifles. After that he had not carried it until the morning of election, having resigned from the Rifles in the meantime he was informed by a friend that if he voted or worked for any member of the Opposition party, he would be pinned to a lamp-post. Being an American citizen he thought he had a right to vote for John Cummins or whom he pleased on the other ticket, and not be interfered with, so carried the pistol to protect his life.

His pistol in passing sentence said until he heard the explanation he was inclined to fine the defendant the full penalty, but under the circumstances he would be more lenient. He was determined, however, to put a stop to this promiscuous carrying of arms. He noticed himself on election day men on King and Beretania streets with guns on their shoulders, and he would give instructions to the police in future to arrest anyone they suspect of having arms whether concealed or not, and if they came before him no matter if they were the highest in the kingdom he would fine them the full penalty. He had been a policeman himself for over twenty years and had not carried a weapon over twenty times. The defendant was fined $15 and $1 costs.

HABITS OF THE CZAR.

A correspondent writing from St. Petersburg says: "Strenuous efforts have been made to keep the terrible weakness of Alexander III for liquor from the public, but it has been extensively whispered ever since he had his first delirium tremens. Alexander III, shortly after the assassination of his father, had recourse to stimulants in order to nerve himself sufficiently to meet the real and imaginary dangers which beset him, and the habit rapidly became one of necessity rather than choice. From this point began what would have been to a man in private life his downward career, but the divinity that erects and maintains a well-kept and evergreen hedge around a sovereign also dulls the senses of his subjects to indifference as to whether he is a drunkard or not.

"This, however, the Czar of Russia is: A hopeless and oftentimes helpless sot. Among those nearest to him it is well known, but never mentioned except in whispers, that he had several times suffered from that most frightful of all species of insanity, delirium tremens, and the narrator alleges, his cruelty to those who were so unfortunate as to come under his hand upon these occasions would have appealed to the finer sensibilities of the King of Dahomey and caused that fiendish monarch to shed tears of compassion. In his lucid intervals he is reasonable and even sagacious; but when under the influence of champagne or brandy, which two liquors are most delightful to the imperial palate, not even his ministers, and, least of all, his wife and children, can restrain his tendency to imperil his personal safety by exposing himself to the attacks of his secret foes in his ungovernable recklessness. It is told of this imperial maniac, that on one occasion, M. de Giers was driven from the Czar's presence with language unfit to be heard in the lowest haunts of infamy, after having been summoned by his sovereign to report upon some matter affecting Russia's foreign policy, and that the Czar's conduct so outraged him that he was only induced to retain his office at the earnest entreaty of friends and upon the Czar's subsequent apology."

SHE FACED THE REGULATORS.

A pretty Nebraska widow who had ensnared the affections of many respectable farmers living near Wyman was recently ordered to leave the county by a band of "regulators" under penalty of a coat of tar and feathers. Nothing daunted by the threat, the widow bought a double-barrel shotgun and awaited developments. When the "regulators" approached the house to carry out their threats, the sight of a loaded gun pointing from one of the windows deterred them and one of the number, in admiration of the woman's pluck, advanced under a flag of truce, proposed marriage and was accepted on the spot. Then a parson was called in, the marriage was celebrated, and the night wound up with a round of festivities.

NOVEL GOLD-CATCHING PROCESS.

For several months Peter Horn-dyke, a well-known gold-miner of the San Juan country, has been coming to Durango on weekly visits buying each time all the beef-hides he could find. As he took the hides mountainward, many wondered to what purpose they were being put. A reporter met Mr. Horn-dyke and bluntly asked him what he was doing with so many hides.

"Well, now that I have proven my theory correct, I have no objection to telling your readers of my doings. You see that all gold-hunters know that much gold known as 'float' is washed away continuously. To catch this by any means has always proved impossible, although tried by many different methods from the tail of sluices and running streams. Last spring I luckily thought of a method which is rapidly making me a rich man."

"How do you do it?" was immediately asked.
"Why, with hides. It's the simplest thing you ever saw. The Animas river tributaries come from the best gold-bearing sections in the country. This being the case much fine or flower-gold must pass down the stream. Up above I arranged my plans by selecting a point where the river cuts directly to the bank. Here I placed a hide on stakes, allowing the water to skim over it; the hair being placed up stream, of course it caught up all the float of all kinds. After leaving the hide in this position for a week, I took it out and examined it thoroughly, but could discover no trace of gold. Being determined to give my experiment a thorough test, I cut up several pieces and burned them in an old pan. In panning the ashes I was rewarded with over $2 in gold. Since that I have devoted my time to setting every hide I could buy, and now I have fifty in place at various points. On my clean-ups, which I make on each hide at the end of two weeks, I realize from $60 to $90 in pure gold, which I secure by retorting the ashes of the hides."
—[Durango Herald.]

THEY OBSERVED ONE DAY.

"Do the people of this town never observe the Sabbath?" asked a minister who recently arrived from the East of a resident of a Dakota town. "We-e-l, I dunno," he replied, doubtfully, "you see 'bout how it goes." "Yes, I have observed it each Sunday since I have been here—every store in town open and business going on at a greater rate than any other day in the week. I am astonished and pained at such scenes. I don't believe you people could suspend business and observe any day if you should try." "Oh, yes we can; we have done it." "What day was it, pray?" "Circus day, elder. That day every house in town was locked up and a nail drove in the key-hole. There was one man in town who was sick abed, but we just put him on a stretcher and carried him down and set him right close up to the ring where the spotted horse kicked at him ev'ry time it went 'round. Great Scott, elder, it would have done you good to see how he enjoyed it!"
—[Dakota Bell.]

HOW SHE STOPPED HIS SWEARING.

There is a young married man who travels for a wholesale grocery, living in Minneapolis, who is a very good fellow, but he has fallen into the habit of using profanity almost constantly. His charming wife tried a dozen ways to break him of the habit without success. Finally she decided upon a plan. He came home the other evening and remarked: "It's been a h— of a day, hasn't it?" "What in the h— has been the matter with it?" asked the wife, coolly.

He looked as if he had been struck by a tornado. It required two days to break the young man of the habit, for his wife repeated every "swear word" he used in her presence. Now he doesn't swear even when he misses a nail and strikes his finger with the hammer.

THE PATENT MEDICINE TRADE OF ENGLAND.

The patent medicine trade is a great and growing one in England. During the year 1886 £179,071 were paid by manufacturers of these articles to the Government in the shape of stamp taxes. In 1865 the sum paid was only £55,333, and in 1875 it was $114,323. The quantity of medicine placed on the market in the ten years 1875-85 did not increase so largely as it did in the ten years from 1865 to 1875. The "Pall Mall Gazette" says that as the value of the stamp or label is one-eighth of the total value of the article stamped, an approximate estimate of the total value of the trade in those goods is possible. On the basis given, the above journal says the expenditure of the people for this class of medicine has increased in twenty-one years from $197,907 to £1,611,639.—[Bradstreet's.]

A mother, noticing her little daughter wipe her mouth with her dress-sleeve, asked her what her handkerchief was for. Said the little one: "It's to shake at the ladies in the street. That's what papa does with his."
